Inline Grading for Assignments

About inline grading for assignments

Instructors can view student-submitted files "inline," meaning in the web browser, without requiring any plug-ins, applets, or client-side applications. Additionally, annotations tools are available as part of the inline viewer, enabling Instructors to provide comments, highlights, and even drawings directly on the inline view of the document.

- The viewer is supported on current versions of Firefox, Chrome, and Safari. No plug-in or other application is necessary.
- If the student has uploaded a file that isn't in a format supported by the inline viewer, then instead of seeing the viewer, the instructor is prompted to download the file in question.

To learn more about the tool, see Inline Assignment Grading.
